Introducing SACI's New Website

As some of you know, our website has been damaged for some time and we found it to be beyond repair. We engaged the services of Gerri Crisantiello of GC Business Services to reconstruct it on a new platform. Please go to www.sacionline.org to view the new site and note some of the changes and upgrades.

The new site now combines the concept of being a 100th anniversary legacy journal as well as being more interactive as to register for current events. The back end of the website recounts a historical perspective of SACI including documentation of our history and lots of pictures memorializing the fun we have had during our more recent events. If you look under "Announcements", you now could find flyers and registration forms for our upcoming activities.

You will see that we are all set with our remaining plans for 2025 - our Fall Golf Outing at Galloping Hill and our Holiday Party at La Griglia Restaurant, both centrally located in Kenilworth. We will try to be more diligent in keeping this page up to date well in advance. Please feel free to direct your friends, colleagues and customers to our new website and encourage them to register with us at any time. We will continue to send our registration forms to our members by email; but it is our hope that all of you will take the opportunity to direct so many others in our industry to our site and participate in SACI.

You will also notice that under the "Join Us" tab; we now provide a new member registration form that can be printed and submitted to either our email sacimanageronline@gmail.com or sent via usps to our SACI mailbox. We remain hopeful that this improved formatting will encourage new membership.

Join me in thanking Gerri for her excellent work. Your comments and observations are welcome.

A New Approach to SACI Slants

Going forward, we will be using the above logo for ongoing news and communications rather than publishing a formal hard copy of SACI Slants Newsletter. This way we can communicate up to date information in a timelier manner. If anyone wishes us to publish anything industry or sales interest related to the group, feel free to forward it to us by email. The organization reserves exclusive editorial discretion.
